ABOUT ME

I am a Web Application Development student with a solid foundation in programming languages such as Java, JavaScript, HTML, CSS, and C#, as well as experience with tools like Velneo and practical knowledge of SQL. I consider myself a highly motivated person, with a strong ability to learn and a genuine passion for technology and programming.

Throughout my education and personal experience, I have proven to be self-taught and consistent, complementing my academic studies with additional courses to broaden my technical skills. I am currently studying Web Application Development at IES San Andrés, where I have also gained experience in databases, computer systems, development environments, and markup languages.

My work experience in the hospitality sector has provided me with key skills such as teamwork, customer service, organization, and the ability to work under pressure qualities I also apply in the tech field.

HOBBIES AND INTERESTS

Art

I have always felt a deep connection with art in all its forms. During the two years I studied the Arts Baccalaureate, I had the opportunity to explore and study a wide range of disciplines such as drawing, painting, sculpture, art history, graphic design, and digital design. This education not only gave me a solid foundation in both traditional and contemporary artistic techniques, but also strengthened my aesthetic sensitivity, creativity, and ability to express myself visually.

Art taught me to see the world through a different lens, to appreciate details, to think critically, and to communicate ideas and emotions through various visual languages. It also helped me develop an open and flexible mindset qualities that I apply in every aspect of my life today, including web development and programming, where design and creativity also play a key role.

Creating, experimenting, and shaping ideas through art remains one of my greatest passions and continues to be a constant source of inspiration in both my personal and professional growth.
